SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 26TH DAY OF JUNE, 1905.

MENEZES, Plaintiff,
versus
MENEZES, Defendant.

The plaintiff seeks to obtain a judicial separation from her husband on the ground of his cruelty and threats to her, the custody of the two children of the marriage, Angela Mary, 4 years old, and Abel Cæsar, 2 years old, and the payment by her husband of $20 a month for the maintenance and support of herself and her children.

The right to obtain a judicial separation a mensâ et thoro was introduced into the Roman Dutch law by the Placaat of the 18th March, 1656, which empowers its being granted if "domestic troubles become "excessive," and last long and cannot be restrained by the ordinary judicial remedies therein mentioned, such as fine, imprisonment, &c. In order to justify its being granted lawful reasons must be set forth tending to show that the parties "continuing to live together is dangerous or at least insupportable (intolerable)" (Van der Lin. i. 3. 9.). English law does not expressly recognise as a ground for granting a judicial separation facts showing that continued cohabitation is insupportable or intolerable, but requires evidence of actual or reasonably apprehended danger to life, limb or health, and the circumstances under which a judicial separation can, according to the Roman Dutch law, be obtained are somewhat less restricted. But even under that law, which is the common law of the colony, to justify the Court in granting a judicial separation and thus restricting the reciprocal rights and obligations which the parties have by marriage acquired and assumed, there must be excessive violence and harshness of the one spouse to the other, or constant and protracted quarrels and disputes or unbearable conduct or imminent risk to life or health to be apprehended from a continuance of cohabitation. (Voet, xxiv. 2. 16, Grotius, i. 5. 20, Van Leeu. Com., i. 15. 3., Cens. For. i. 15. 18.), for, as stated by De Villiers, C.J., (Goldsworthy v. Goldsworthy), 10 Jut. 139), in the absence of serious personal violence one spouse may reasonably be expected to bear with occasional outbursts of ill-temper on the part of the other. A strict examination of the circumstances of each case in which a judicial separation is sought is therefore necessary to prevent its being sought and obtained with distressing consequences to one or both of the parties on grounds which can readily be removed by the exercise of patience and mutual forbearance. It would seem also to be in accordance with the intention of the Placaat that in cases where a repetition of any special act of misconduct complained of can probably be prevented by an application to the ordinary tribunals for correction thereof by imposition of a penalty, the special remedy of a judicial separation should not be granted, but we are not aware of any authoritative decision of this point, and it is unnecessary in this case to finally decide it.

In the present case the parties have been married for about five-and-a-quarter years and lived together for four years and ten or eleven months. During the whole of that period (even if the plaintiff's evidence can be accepted without reserve) only five disputes of any importance occurred between her husband and herself; in two of them only angry words passed, in two others little physical force was used, only in the last instance, which occurred in December, 1904, was there any bad consequence of the force employed, and even in that instance the consequences do not appear to have been serious, though subsequently marks of blows were seen on her back and shoulders and a swelling on her head. The plaintiff's evidence is for the most part uncorroborated, and in many particulars contradicted by that of the defendant and his witnesses, and no doubt exaggerates what actually took place. Our reliance on it also is much weakened by its conflict, on the question of her treatment of her elder child, with other evidence which we believe. From her own evidence, however, it appears that she was not anxious to leave her husband before the occurrence which took place in December last, that on that occasion she refused to leave after being struck by the defendant, and they appear to have subsequently met at her mother's house and amicably conversed. The defendant who in his evidence no doubt minimises his bad conduct towards his wife but admits having struck her in December last has expressed his regret and his desire that the plaintiff should return to him. The defendant's language when he went to his mother-in-law's house on the 8th December was undoubtedly coarse and insulting but appears to have been an attack on his mother-in-law rather than on his wife.

Such being the facts of the case we think plaintiff has not established sufficient grounds for the separation order she seeks, and neither that order nor either of the consequential orders sought as to custody of the children of the marriage and payment of alimony by the defendant can be made.

The plaintiff not being entitled to a separation order, the Court grants the order for restitution of conjugal rights which the defendant seeks by his counterclaim.

The Court makes no order as to costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

THIS 28TH DAY OF JUNE, 1905.

APICON, Plaintiff,
versus
WOOLFORD, Respondent.

The plaintiff in her own right and as mother and natural guardian of her four minor children seeks a declaration that a levy on and sale at execution on the 10th April, 1905, of North East two-fifths of lot No. 1 (also known as No. 3) in Werk-en-Rust district be declared null and void, and that the Letters of Decree for that property granted on the 11th April, 1905, to the defendant as purchaser at such sale be revoked and cancelled.

The plaintiff contends that she is entitled to the relief sought, on all or some one or more of the following grounds:

(1) that no summation was served as prescribed by law and therefore all subsequent steps in execution were null and void:

(2) that the Marshal was not legally authorised to take the property in execution, the Fiat Executio under which he proceeded to levy not being authorised by law, and therefore the levy and all subsequent proceedings were null and void:

(3) that even if the levy was lawful, the property was not legally sold to the defendant, as when knocked down to him he was not ready to pay cash and did not then produce sureties, but only did so after all the execution sales for the day were closed, and (as to one of the sureties) after he had received notice that minors were interested in the property, and that the plaintiff intended to take proceedings to set aside the sale; the Marshal's acceptance of the sureties at the time he did was ultra vires and illegal: and also the sureties did not bind themselves under the renunciation mentioned in the conditions of sale:

(4) that some of the persons interested in the property are minors and have been damnified by the property being sold far below its value.

In all cases where parate execution is allowed by law it is essential that summation should be served as the law prescribes. In all other cases the liability of the alleged debtor must be established by legal proceedings before execution can issue, the writ or summons by which such proceedings are initiated must be duly served and service proved before any further step in default of appearance can be taken, and the writ or summons if and when served gives the alleged debtor notice of what is demanded of him and an opportunity of settling the claim if well founded by payment before any further proceedings. In cases of parate execution the summation alone gives the alleged debtor notice of the claim made and an opportunity of settling it before his property is taken in execution. In all cases therefore where the summation is not duly served, the subsequent proceedings by way of execution are, in our opinion, null and void, at any rate if (as in the present instance) there is no proof of any waiver by the alleged debtor of the omission or defect, (c.f. the analogous case of omission to advertise, Rosenberg v Silva, 8 Ceylon, N. L. Rep. 110.)

From the evidence in the present case we are not satisfied that the summation was duly served as prescribed by law, the evidence, in our opinion, showing the contrary. The Marshal it is true makes a return on the summation that it was duly served by affixing it by a nail to the door of the principal building on North East two-fifth lot No. 1 or 3. This, in the absence of other evidence, would be sufficient proof of the fact stated in the return. But some of the plaintiff's witnesses who occupied the building on North East two-fifth of lot No. 1 or 3 state that no paper was affixed to any door of the building on that part of the lot, and one of these witnesses, a hammock-maker, who for many years has worked at one of the doors of that building, deposes (and we see no reason to doubt his evidenee) that he had orders to see that no bills, advertisements or papers were put on the house and used to look and see whether any had been put that they might be removed, and would have recognised a paper like the summation as being a tax bill. The Marshal also who made the return, on being called as a witness, very candidly stated that he does not know which part of lot 1 or 3 is the North East two-fifth, that he is not prepared to swear that he put the summation on the right house, and that he put the summation on the third building in Lombard Street from the corner, which building is apparently not on the North East two-fifth of lot No. 1 or 3 which is a corner lot. This being all the evidence on the point, we think the summation is not proved to have been duly affixed to the principal building on the North East two-fifth of the lot. It is unnecessary to decide whether this, if proved, would without more constitute sufficient service of the summation, as this was in any event a material and most important part of the service.

The summation not having been duly served all subsequent proceedings in execution including the sale of the property were null and void and the sale must be set aside. But the purchase money having already been paid to the Registrar, and the unpaid taxes paid thereout, the sale will be set aside only on payment into Court of such sum as with the undrawn balance of the purchase money now in the Registrar's hands will equal the sum paid by the defendant for the property, the defendant to be entitled to uplift such money.

It is unnecessary to consider in detail and at length the other grounds urged for setting aside this sale, the one already dealt with being decisive of the question at issue, but we doubt their being sufficient to render the execution and sale invalid.

We think that under all the circumstances of this case, each party should bear their own costs.

By consent of parties, the Court also now gives judgment in the opposition suit relating to this property. Judgment therein is given for the plaintiff, but each party must bear its own costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C. J.
A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.
JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

In the action,

MOULTON v. PETERS,

In re E. A. BURGESS, a Solicitor.

In this case a rule of Court has been made calling on Mr. E. A. Burgess to show cause why his name should not be struck off the Roll of Solicitors or he be suspended from practice on the ground of misconduct appearing at the hearing of the above-mentioned action, namely, that he being employed as solicitor to the owner and intending vendor of "The Peters' Mine" agreed to accept from a third person a commission of $1,500 out of a sum of $5,000 alleged to be payable by his client to such third person if the Mine was sold to a person then treating for the purchase thereof and who had been introduced to the vendor by such third person.

Solicitors are officers of the Court, and if any professional or other grave misconduct on the part of a solicitor or what appears to be such is brought to the notice of the Court in an action or other proceeding it is the duty of the Court ex mero muto to take notice of it as raising a question as to the propriety of such person's continuance as an officer of the Court, and after affording him an opportunity of explaining or defending his conduct, to take such action as may be necessary. This principle has been frequently acted on in the English Courts (R. v. Southerton, 6 East 126; Goodwin v. Gornell, 2 Col 457; Hunt, 33 L.T. 99; Thomson v. Finch, 25 L.J.

Digitized by Google

Ch. 681), and also in this Court, and the observance of it is in the public interest and beneficial to the legal profession itself.

Mr. Burgess having appeared, and with leave of the Court put in a written statement, we now proceed to consider and determine the matter. In what follows, our inferences are drawn from the evidence and letters of Mr. Burgess himself, but such inferences are, in our opinion, strengthened, if the evidence of the plaintiff and defendant, parts of which evidence is referred to by Mr. Burgess in his written statement, are taken into consideration.

It is, we think, clear on the evidence that Mr. Burgess knew that the plaintiff expected to obtain a commission of $5,000 from the defendant if the plaintiff introduced him to one Karns, a mining expert, having command of capital, and the introduction led to the purchase of the defendant's mining property by Karns: that he also knew that the defendant's price for the Mine was $60,000, and that that price had been mentioned to Karns and that any addition to it would be a matter of much difficulty, for Mr. Burgess has no recollection of telling the defendant that the plaintiff had suggested the $5,000 should be taken into account in fixing the price, and when the defendant suggested raising the price to include that sum, dissuaded him, saying he had already fixed the price. It is obvious, therefore, that the $5,000, if paid, could come only from the money payable to the defendant, i. e., out of his client's pocket. This being so, Mr. Burgess accepted an offer from the plaintiff to pay him $1,500 out of his commission, Mr. Burgess had not apparently at the time the offer was made and accepted, been expressly retained by the defendant as his solicitor, but there is no doubt, that he at that time expected, and reasonably expected to act as solicitor for the defendant in connection with the sale of the mine and he was in fact almost immediately employed by the defendant as his solicitor, and acted as such while having accepted the plaintiff's promise of the $1,500. He thus put himself in a wrong position, in which there was a conflict between his interest and his duty, it being to his interest that the purchase should in any event be carried through and the plaintiff receive his commission, while it was at the same time his duty not to accept on behalf of his client any proposed contract containing disadvantageous terms, and to resist payment of any commission to the plaintiff. This conflict was, we believe, present to his mind, for he states that he thought the plaintiff's object was to render him lenient to the terms of the draft option contract submitted by Karns. It is true that Mr. Burgess (in a later part of his evidence) says this was a suggestion of his wicked mind and that he had no ground for so thinking, but the fact remains that he did think so, and was, notwithstanding content to occupy the anomalous position in which his own interest and his duty to his client were in conflict, and, during the early stages, at any rate, of the negotiations he tried to impress on the defendant, that he had no right to accept the introduction unless he carried out the terms as to payment of the $5,000. It is urged by Mr. Burgess, that the defendant knew that he was to obtain a commission and in support of this, his letter to the defendant of the 23rd December, 1903, is referred to, in which Mr. Burgess states, "I will get the other side to pay me a commission if you do not do so." This passage, even if when read with the context it meant that in the event of the defendants not paying a commission, Mr. Burgess would get the other side to do so, would only suggest to the reader a commission (like that received by Stoby) paid out of the purchaser's pocket and not coming indirectly from the defendant's pocket out of the $5,000 paid out of the purchase money he expected to receive. And we are not satisfied that Mr. Burgess communicated to the defendants the arrangement between the plaintiff and himself at any time before it was about to be abandoned. That Mr. Burgess was acting as solicitor for the plaintiff at the time of this arrangement is not the meaning of the part of the judgment of the Court which is cited in Mr. Burgess written statement nor is it established by any evidence and had he been so acting it would clearly have been his duty to have declined to act both for the plaintiff and the defendant as their interests were opposed.

There is nothing to shew that in the ultimate event the interests of Mr. Burgess client suffered owing to the arrangement Mr. Burgess's entered into with the plaintiff, but this fact coupled with the circumstances that the arrangement was subsequently abandoned owing to his client's persistent refusal to pay any commission to the plaintiff, Mr. Burgess releasing the plaintiff from his promise and obtaining a sum of $1,500 out of the purchase money which had so increased from $60,000 to $62,000. Some question having been raised as to the number of claims included, does not excuse his misconduct, though it reduces the gravity of it.

The Court cannot pass over the transgression of which Mr. Burgess, one of its officers, has been guilty, but under all the circumstances of the case suspends him from practice for a period of six months from the date of this order.

On the 26th inst. on Mr. Burgess appearing to show cause he stated that he had suffered mentally very much and was not able to deal with the matter orally and requested leave to put in a written statement and that it might be taken as read, and this request was granted by the Court. The written statement so put in and taken as read contains passages in which Mr. Burgess must have known constitute a serious contempt of Court. The Court having taken into consideration Mr. Burgess's alleged perturbed state of mind, directed his attention to it this morning and asked whether he had any reason to urge why notice should not be taken of it. He has not taken advantage of the opportunity, has offered no apology and put forward no ground for the Court not dealing with the matter. Under these circumstances it is impossible altogether to pass over a contempt thus committed in the presence of the Court when the written statement was at Mr. Burgess's request taken as read, although his oral statement this morning showed much mental perturbation. The Court orders that he do within one month from the date of this decision pay a fine of $50, in default of payment to be imprisoned without hard labour for fourteen days.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 30TH DAY OF JUNE, 1905.

versus
HERBERT.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate allowing to the respondent $13 94 as damages for wrongful dismissal.

It appears that the respondent was employed as assistant teacher at the Christ Church school of which the appellant is manager. The appellant, on the 5th December, 1904, gave the respondent three months' notice, but on the 21st January, 1905, he dismissed her summarily. It is stated in the appellant's letter of dismissal, that he dismissed her for insubordination and disobedience to the headmaster, on the 19th January. The letter continues in the following words: "Your insubordination for the "whole of 1904 has been very regrettable and the "warning I gave you last October, has proved "useless."

It is stated on behalf of the appellant that the Magistrate amended the claim so as to make the appellant responsible as manager of the school and not liable as an individual. There is nothing on the face of the copy of the proceedings to show that any such amendment was made. It is, however, practically admitted on behalf of the respondent that an amendment or addition was made. The amendment was, it appears, adding the words "Manager of Christ Church "School" in the rubric. I consider that when a Magistrate makes any amendment or alteration a note should be made showing that such alteration or amendment has been made. Section 58 of the Petty Debts Recovery Ordinance, 1893, provides that all such amendments as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question of controversy between the parties shall be made if duly applied for. There is nothing on the copy of the proceedings to show if the addition or amendment was duly applied for. Both parties were represented by solicitors in the Court below, and I cannot presume that the addition or amendment was made without having been duly applied for. The Magistrate should, nevertheless, have made a note of the application. The addition is, however, only a further description of the defendant, and does not appear to me material. It is said that the amendment makes the defendant liable as a manager of a school and not liable as an individual, and also that in law the defendant is not liable as an individual. I am of opinion that the defendant is liable as an individual, and the amendment does not in anyway limit his liability; it is purely descriptive. The manager of a school is not a body corporate, who can sue and be sued. There is nothing in the Elementary Education Ordinance or the Regulations enacted thereunder which provides that a manager shall not be individually liable for the salaries of teachers employed by him, and that such salaries should only be paid out of the fees or grant-in-aid paid to the school. The manager, in making his contract with a teacher, might perhaps if he chose stipulate by apt words that he would make the payment, not personally, but out of the fees paid to the school. No such special contract was made in this case.

The Manager has the exclusive right of appointing and dismissing teachers and assistant teachers. In the claim herein, the respondent sets out that the appellant employed her as assistant teacher. He could only have so employed her if he was Manager. If the appellant had wished to dispute his having employed the respondent or his power of doing so, he could have raised the question before the Magistrate.

It is further contended on the appellant's behalf, that legal evidence was rejected, that is to say, that the log-book of the school was not admitted in evidence. From the copy proceeding's it seems doubtful if the log book was or was not admitted in evidence. It is first stated "Log-book tendered and admitted," and a few lines further on "Log-book "tendered with writing in October, 1904, (not "admitted defendant having stated his reasons in "letter dated January 21st, 1905, and addressed to "the plaintiff)." As there was no log-book amongst the papers sent to the Court, I caused a letter to be written to the Magistrate, who replied that the log-book was not admitted in evidence. I do not think that the log-book is receivable in evidence. There is nothing in any law or Regulation, as far as I am aware, making it admissible.

It is argued that the entries in the log-book would prove insubordination on the respondent's part. The entries in the log-book could not be proof of the truth of the statements therein contained unless there were some law making them proof. There is no such law. I think, therefore, that the log-book was rightly not received in evidence.

It is said that the Regulations or Education Code was not properly proved and could not therefore be referred to by the Magistrate. The Regulations are made and enacted by the Governor and Court of Policy under section 6 of the Education Ordinance, 1876. Under section 25 (5) of the Evidence Ordinance, 1893 every Judge shall take judicial notice of . . . . all rules, Regulations or by-laws respectively made or approved by the Governor and Court of Policy or by the Governor-in-Council or by any other body or person under the authority of any Ordinance. The Magistrate was therefore bound by law to take judicial notice of the Education Code.

From the Magistrate's reasons of judgment it appears as if he holds that a teacher or assistant teacher can only be dismissed under the Education Code after three clear months' notice. I cannot agree. The contract can only be terminated after three clear months' notice in the usual course, but that does not, in my opinion, take away the right of instant dismissal for any just cause. I do not, however, consider that a just cause for instant dismissal is shown on the evidence. The cause of dismissal is said to be insubordination and disobedience to the headmaster on the 19th January. The headmaster in his evidence states: "On the 19th "January, I told plaintiff to teach the children, this "was after 4 o'clock, she said she would not work "after 4 p.m. I told her I would report her to "the manager and she said she could not be eaten "by the manager, but she could not be turned out "without getting notice." The respondent states that on the 19th January, she remained in school up to 4.45 p.m., that the usual hour for closing school is 4 p.m. She further states that the headmaster told her to go and stand in front of the children and if she did not he would report her. It seems to me that the regular school hours are till 4 p.m. The headmaster said he had not a time-table hung in a conspicuous place. Although he states the hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. in the afternoon, yet he talks of the children being detained after 4 p.m. and that the respondent used to remain in school up to 5 p.m. very often. It is said that the respondent was before that date insubordinate. The evidence is very vague and indefinite on that point. The appellant states that the respondent would turn her back on him and not stand up to attention when he entered the school as Manager and further that he held no enquiry into the headmaster's complaint because he had as much rudeness as it was possible for anyone to receive from an employee, but no details beyond those already set out are given. The previous insubordination complained of by the headmaster is that the respondent had not for six months told him good morning in coming into school. Of course discipline must be maintained in school and probably the defendant was not as respectful and obedient to her superiors as she ought to have been, but I do not consider that there is anything shown to justify a departure from the Regulation requiring three months' notice.

The reason of appeal that the respondent was, by her conduct, estopped from claiming damages, was abandoned at the hearing.

For the foregoing reasons, I affirm the Magistrate's decision and dismiss this appeal with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 30TH DAY OF JUNE, 1905.

FRASER.

This is an action to restrain the sale of lot 81, section A, Queenstown Village, in the county of Essequebo, advertised to be sold at execution at the instance of the defendant in an action by him against Charles Berckyck.

The property originally belonged to the defendant, and the whole question for decision is whether he sold it to the plaintiff or to the plaintiff's son-in-law, Berkyck. The judgment under which the levy is made is on the promissory note given by Berckyck for the balance of the purchase money of the property. The plaintiff alleges that he also gave another promissory note for the balance of the purchase money, but there is not the slightest evidence of any such promissory note having been given. It was alleged to have been written in the Georgetown Market at one of the stalls. If that is so, surely a witness to that fact could have been produced. There is no doubt that the receipt given for the $150 paid on account of the purchase was given by the defendant in the name of the plaintiff, and was afterwards altered by the defendant by adding the words "for C. Berkyck." This was a highly improper act, in my opinion. I think, however, after reading the letters by Mrs. Berkyck and the defendant, and considering the evidence, that the sale was really made to Berkyck, and that the plaintiff afterwards entered into negotiations to take over the balance of debt due by Berkyck. Those negotiations never resulted in a new agreement.

For these reasons I must give judgment for the defendant with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

JAMES, plaintiff,
versus
FLOOD, defendant.

The plaintiff claims $240 as compensation for damages to certain provisions growing on two beds in the so-called new empolder of Den Amstel village, caused by the alleged negligence of the defendant.

The negligence charged is, that the defendant neglected to raise to the proper height, the dams connected with the intake koker by means of which he obtains water for Blankenburg from the Boerasirie canal and that consequently, on the 24th and following days of December, 1904, the water from the canal overflowed such dams and made its way into Den Amstel, damaging the plaintiff's growing crops in the so-called new empolder.

The defendant denies the several allegations in the Statement of Claim as to the plaintiff's possession of provision beds and of growing crops, as to any damage having been caused thereto or caused by any neglect or otherwise of him, the defendant, and alleges that if any such damage was caused, it was caused by heavy weather, and that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence.

It is established by the evidence, that the plaintiff occupies and cultivates two provision beds aback of Den Amstel, in what is called by the witnesses, the new empolder. From the evidence of Mr. Corry, for many years Chairman of the Village Council, and other witnesses, it appears that the so-called new empolder has, for a long time, been treated as Village property, and the occupancy of provision beds therein by the plaintiff and others has been recognised by the Village authorities. This being so, and there being no satisfactory evidence before me that the lands are ungranted Crown lands, and that the plaintiff is a mere trespasser without any rights against third parties (Harper v. Charlesworth, 6 D. & R. 592), there is sufficient evidence of his legal possession of two provision beds to enable him to maintain this action.

The fact that the crops growing on the plaintiff's provision beds were overflowed by water on the days mentioned in the Statement of Claim, and the extent of the damage caused by such overflow, have not been seriously contested and are proved.

The facts, appearing from the evidence and relied on in support of the plea of contributory negligence, are that the back lands of Den Amstel, now known as the new empolder, were for many years uncultivated save in a few spots, on account of their not being empoldered and of their being therefore covered with water during the rainy season: that the plaintiff and other farmers who obtained provision beds there, were aware of this and that they might reasonably expect their beds to be overflowed with water and their crops damaged during the rainy season unless they made a proper side-line dam and trench between Den Amstel and Blankenburg and a proper back dam, but that they made no back dam and only an imperfect side-line dam. These facts do not, in my opinion, support the plea of contributory negligence, if it be established that the plaintiff's lands were overflowed in consequence of the escape of water artificially brought on the defendant's lands and escaping thence, owing to the negligent construction of his works (Harrison v. G. N. R. Co., 33, L.J., Ex. 266: Rylands v. Fletcher, L.R., 3, H.L., 330), the plaintiff and the other farmers in the new empolder, not being under any obligation to construct and dig such dams and trenches, as would prevent any water artificially brought on neighbouring lands and escaping thence by reason of the negligent construction of the works for retaining the same.

The only questions, therefore, which remain for decision, are (1) was the overflowing and consequent damage to the plaintiff's crops caused by the escape of water over the intake koker and wing dams, constructed on the defendant's lands, and (2) if so, was its escape due to the negligent construction of those works.

The evidence leaves no doubt in my mind that a large volume of water flowed over the defendant's intake koker and wing dams thereof and thus added to any water which was already lying on the lands of Blankenburg and Den Amstel. I am satisfied also that water overflowed the dam of the service canal aback of Den Amstel and Blankenburg, to a depth of several inches on the 24th December, and probably on the following days, as the heavy rains continued till the 27th (according to Mr. Corry's testimony) and Mr. Menzies, one of the plaintiff's witnesses, deposes that the water was still coming over (though not in such volume as to do damage), on the days he was raising the height of the koker dam and wing dams on Blankenburg. It also appears from Mr. Menzies's evidence that there was at this time a rainfall of 15 inches in six days, a heavier rainfall than has been known for very many years within such a short period. Also according to the evidence of several witnesses, the land slopes slightly downwards from Den Amstel eastwards, Blankenburg being lower than Den Amstel and La Jalousie to the east of Blankenburg, lower than Blankenburg. Hence water on Blankenburg would naturally flow east and not towards Den Amstel. The evidence is very general and when the plaintiff's witnesses first visited the back lands the water appears from the evidence to have been already lying on them. After a careful consideration of all the evidence, I am not satisfied by it that the water coming over the defendant's koker and wing dams caused or was a concurrent cause of the damage complained of, and the action is therefore dismissed with costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C. J.

HODGE & ORS.

versus

EARLE.

The plaintiffs allege that they were in possession of certain lands at Pln. Tenez Ferme leased by them from Bisnauth and that the defendant wrongfully put stop-offs on the land whereby the waters on the land were unable to be discharged into the draining trench, and the plaintiffs' provisions growing on the land were destroyed.

It appears that the defendant and Bisnauth had some dispute about the land at Tenez Ferme sold by the defendant to Bisnauth. Judgment was given in favour of Bisnauth and the defendant was ordered to transport certain land to Bisnauth. In the centre of Tenez Ferme there is a large trench which has been called by the plaintiffs the draining trench and by others a middle walk or navigation trench. Apparently the defendant was of opinion that the transport passed to Bisnauth did not give him the dam or any portion of this trench. On the 22nd December, 1904, the defendant, presumably to show his alleged right to the dam, went on the land and put certain stop-offs in cuts made in the dam. He was seen by Bisnauth and some of the plaintiffs and arrested for trespass.

I am not satisfied that any more stop-offs were put than those at the three cuts in the dam. Neither Bisnauth nor the plaintiffs, Ritchie and Bennett, who were with him took any steps to remove these stop-offs. The stop-offs were left until February, 1905, as far as I can gather, when appraisers went and assessed the damage done and the plaintiffs state they replanted their land in or about the month of March. I have no doubt that all the plaintiffs were well aware of the stop-offs having been put by the defendant within a very short time of their being put and before any real damage was done.

The question that arises in my mind is, could the plaintiffs allow the stoppage to what they allege is their drainage to remain for an indefinite time, until their provisions were damaged and then sue the defendant for such damage? The reasons given by such of the plaintiffs as were asked why did they not take out the stop-offs, are: "I could not before my lawyer told me to." We did not know on what terms he was putting them in." "I was waiting further orders." The lessor, however, and two of their number went so far as to arrest the defendant for going on the land. I cannot see any reason why they should not have taken them out, they thought they were in the right in arresting the defendant, surely they could have removed the stop-offs, an operation which would only have taken a few moments to accomplish. The land the plaintiffs claimed as theirs, and they state they were in possession, it could not possibly be said, that by their removing the stop-offs there could have been any breach of the peace, especially as the defendant had already been arrested for trespass.

If the damage was caused as alleged by the stop-offs, it appears to me that the proximate cause of the damage was the plaintiffs' own supineness, though the primary and original cause was the defendant's wrong-doing. The rule of law as stated by Lord Wenslydale, is "that although they may have been negligence on the part of the plaintiff, yet unless he might, by the exercise of ordinary care, have avoided the consequences of the defendant's negligence, he is entitled to recover; if by ordinary care he might have avoided them, he is the author of his own wrong, Bridge v. The Grand Junction Canal, 3 Mee & W. 244." "Ordinary care" on the plaintiff's part, includes doing any necessary acts that ordinary skill requires. In the case of The Thuringia, 41 L. J. Adm. 44, it was proved that a steamer ran down the Thuringia which was abandoned as a total loss, it was held that as "ordinary energy would have "discovered the means of temporarily stopping the "rent in the side of the vessel, the plaintiff could not "recover as for the total loss of the ship." In the present case, ordinary energy would, in my opinion, have prevented any damage, if the damage was caused by the stop-offs. If I were to hold otherwise, where could the line be drawn? Could the plaintiffs refuse to open up their drainage for a year or even more and hold the defendant liable for loss of the profits they could have made out of the land? I certainly think not. I think, therefore, that the plaintiffs cannot succeed in this action, the proximate cause of the damage being their own supineness and want of ordinary care and energy.

Holding as I do, it is hardly necessary to go into the further questions raised by this case. I would, however, point out that I am not at all satisfied that the cuts in the dam were necessary for or could have formed part of the plaintiffs' drainage. The so-called draining trench is a tidal trench without any koker and could not possibly have afforded efficient drainage. From the evidence, it is clear that the drainage of the whole block of land was in a most neglected state, and it would be impossible to state on the evidence if the damage was caused by neglect of cleaning the four-foots or by the putting of the stop-offs.

It appears to me also on the face of it that the assessment of the alleged damaged must be very greatly exaggerated, especially when it is remembered that it is stated that the land is high and low in different parts, that it is not all the same level on the same bed, and that only those portions of the provisions growing on the low levels were damaged.

For these reasons I must give judgment for the defendant with costs.

A. V. LUCIE SMITH, J.

FERREIRA

MORRIS.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant and certain other persons entitled to the property, sold to the plaintiff lot No. 60, Albert Town, with the erections thereon, as set out in the claim herein, that he paid $40 on the 8th October, 1904, on account of $500, the price agreed to be paid for the property, and is ready and willing to pay the balance of the purchase money on the passing to him of the transport of the property. The plaintiff claims that the defendant be ordered to pass a transport to him, of her undivided share in the property or to join the other undivided owners in transporting the property on payment of the balance of the purchase money. The plaintiff also claims damages.

I find, on the evidence, that the defendant and her husband were desirous of selling the property in question. Mrs. Fernandes, who is the plaintiff's sister, had been occupying part of the property under a lease for about 34 years. Under her lease she had a right of pre-emption. On the 12th February, 1902, Mrs. Fernandes transferred her share in all the buildings on lot 60, Albert Town, to the plaintiff. There is a dispute between Mrs. Fernandes and her brother, the plaintiff, as to whether this transfer was by way of security for money paid by the plaintiff on her behalf or not, but this question does not affect the present case. The plaintiff wanted $800 for the place. She says Darrell told her a coolie man had offered $650, and she refused it. Subsequently the defendant agreed to sell the place at Mr. Belmonte's office for $500. She says she did so because she understood that Mrs. Fernandes was the purchaser, and was told by the plaintiff that as Mrs. Fernandes had been in possession so long, 34 years, she could have taken the place without paying anything; and that she, the defendant, had better take what she could get. The plaintiff admits that he said at Mr. Belmonte's office that "Mrs. Fernandes had the preference because she had had the place so long," but that he does not remember saying "that the rent paid by Mrs. Fernandes was more than the value of the property." Mr. Morris signed the agreement of sale, but he was ill at the time and the whole transaction was carried out by Mrs. Morris. I believe there was some misunderstanding in the matter, and that Mrs. Morris thought she was selling to Mrs. Fernandes or to the plaintiff, who had a bill of sale from Mrs. Fernandes, on behalf of Mrs.

Fernandes and that she was obliged to take what she offered or she would get nothing.

Under the circumstance, I do not consider this is a case in which the Court should make an order for specific performance.

The plaintiff claims special damages for loss of the use of the moneys provided by him for the completion of the purchase, for expenses made in investigating the title, and for loss of rent and also general damages. The defendant only paid $40, he never had any money to pay the balance of the purchase money, he states he could have borrowed it. Without having paid the purchase money he could not be entitled to the rents. All the damage he has suffered is the loss of the use of the $40. The defendant through her Counsel offered to repay the $40 before this action was brought.

There will be judgment for the plaintiff for $50.

Each party to pay their own costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 6TH DAY OF JULY, 1905.

RICHARD SHERVINGTON AND STANLEY SHERVINGTON, Obtainers of an order Pro Deo.

versus

MARY ELIZA SHERVINGTON.

The plaintiffs in this action claim shortly:—

(a) An injunction restraining the defendant from passing transport of lot 235, Bourda, and the buildings thereon.

(b) The sum of $475 belonging to the plaintiffs, being the proceeds of the sale of their property known as W½ lot No. 76, Bourda.

(c) An account of the dealings and intromissions of the defendant with the property of George Thomas Shervington, deceased, and especially with that left and bequeathed to the plaintiffs.

(d) Payment of such sum as may be found to be due to the plaintiffs on the taking and adjustment of such accounts.

(e) Costs.

The defence is that the estate was insolvent and was so administered after being authorised by an Order of the Court; that the creditors gave a good and valid discharge; that the defendant was a creditor to the extent of $3,339 10, but has never sought to recover the same; that she has always maintained and continues to maintain the legitimate children of her husband and a denial that the assets were sufficient to pay any part of the legacies.

From the evidence, there was a petition to the Supreme Court, and an order to administer the estate in insolvency so long ago as January, 1892. The matter was in the hands of the late Mr. Hinds, who died before the affairs of the estate were finally adjusted, the result being that no accounts were ever filed.

The decision in Hyder's case covers this, and the only way the defendant can obtain her discharge is by filing accounts and then applying to the Court.

This being so, I direct the defendant to file accounts with the Official Receiver within one month from the date of this order, after which any further application will be dealt with.

As a sum of money sufficient to meet the claim and costs was deposited in the Registry of Court, transport has been passed. The claim for an injunction is not now demanded.

The question of costs will be dealt with when any further application is made.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 6TH DAY OF JULY, 1905.

C. P. GASKIN, Appellant,

versus

P. DARGAN, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District on an application for a new trial. The reasons of appeal are:

1. That legal evidence has been rejected by the Magistrate, inasmuch as on the said application being called for hearing, the appellant offered to adduce oral evidence to prove the grounds set forth in the application, but the Magistrate refused to allow the said evidence to be adduced on the objection on behalf of the plaintiff, that the application should have been supported by affidavit.

2. That the decision is erroneous in point of law.

(a.) There is no provision in the Petty Debts Ordinance, 1893, or in the Rules regulating the practice and procedure of Magistrate's Courts, or otherwise in law requiring the grounds of applications for a new trial to be proved by affidavit.

(b.) The Magistrate has not confined his decision to the preliminary objection raised on behalf of the plaintiff, but has decided generally on the goodness of the application, without having heard the applicant thereon and the evidence which he offered to adduce in support thereof.

(c.) That notice of application having been given in open Court, as required by Section 5 (1) of the Magistrate's Decisions (Appeal) Ordinance, 1893, the Magistrate should have exercised his discretion in further staying execution of the said judgment pending the appeal.

Reason 2 (a) is the only one that need be dealt with. In the Rules of the Petty Debt Court, there is no direct provision on the subject, and it is argued for the respondent, that this being so, the Rules of the Supreme Court apply, and that, as by those Rules, all motions must be supported by affidavit, so all applications before a Magistrate must be so supported. It has been held that in deciding on an application for a new trial, the Magistrate must be guided by the Rules of law which govern similar motions in the higher Courts, but there are no decisions as to rules of procedure. See Lancaster v. de Freitas, 22nd February, 1904, and English cases herein referred to.

The County Courts in England are guided by their own rules as to procedure, and in a number of cases affidavits are necessary, but they are specifically named. Application for new trials are not amongst those where affidavits are obligatory. In the Rules of the Petty Debt Court, in only one instance is an affidavit required, and that is when the judgment creditor seeks to bring a judgment debtor before the Court. This being so, it is clear that affadavits in support of application for a new trial are not necessary before a Magistrate. When applications are made on the day of hearing, no formalities are necessary, and it is only when they are to be made at a subsequent sitting of the Court, that notice is necessary. The applications are made in open Court and although in County Courts, if the application is grounded on fresh facts, such as misconduct on the other side or surprise, it is said in Mr. Pitt Lewis's well-known work, that there should be affidavits, there is nothing making them obligatory in the rules.

The Magistrate should have heard the application, and not have decided it as he did, on the objection that it was improperly before the Court, and that an affidavit was necessary. I refer the matter back to the Magistrate to hear the application and the evidence offered, and then decide according to the rules of law governing applications for a new trial.

I grant costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

BEROOSA, Appellant,

versus

RAMPERSAUD, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District, who gave judgment for the plaintiff.

The reasons of Appeal are: (1) that the decision is erroneous in point of law.

(a) Because no agreement has been proved.

(b) Because it has not been proved that the defendant bought milk from the plaintiff as alleged in the plaintiff's claim.

(c) Because it has not been proved what quantity of milk was sold by the plaintiff to the defendant.

2. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury, there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict inasmuch as the evidence on each and every material allegation of the claim is insufficient.

It was argued for the appellant as the chief ground of appeal that the bill of particulars was not sustained by the evidence given inasmuch as each and every item on it was not stated in detail.

These items were open to cross-examination, but it was not taken advantage of although the defence was a denial in toto of the claim. The plaintiff testified to the agreement and to the sale of milk during the months as claimed, and the Magistrate, in his reasons for decision, said he was satisfied that defendant bought milk from the plaintiff during the period mentioned in the claim, and the Court will not interfere with his finding as there was evidence, if believed, to support it.

The appeal is dismissed with costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

SUSAN CÆSAR, Appellant,

versus

IGNATIUS KING, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Magistrate of the Berbice Judicial District, who convicted the appellant for being in the unlawful possession of rum and fined her $500 to be recovered by distress, in default six months, and $2 to be recovered by distress, in default 7 days hard labour.

The reasons of appeal are :

I. That the decision is erroneous in point of law.

(a) Because it was not proved that the defendant was the person possessing any spirits within the meaning of the law to make her liable as a person unlawfully possessing spirits.

(b) Because the child's possession of any rum or spirits, is not the defendant's possession within the meaning of the law so as to make her (the defendant) liable as the person unlawfully possessing spirits.

II. That the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence in like manner as if the case had been tried by a jury, there would not have been sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict.

The Magistrate, in his reasons for decision, said he believed the complainant's story and was satisfied the child was the daughter of the defendant and held that possession had been proved.

I think, on the evidence, the Magistrate was quite justified in holding as he did. When the defendant was stopped, she snatched a parcel that was in a basket which was being carried by a child close to her, and endeavoured to break the contents, two flasks and half a bottle of rum, over two quarts, against a telegraph post.

I dismiss the appeal with costs.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, JULY 15TH, 1905.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
21. 10th June, 1905.

THE following Draft Amendments of the Rules of the British Guiana Building Society, Limited, which will be considered at a meeting of the Governor and Court of Policy, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

THE BRITISH GUIANA BUILDING SOCIETY, LIMITED.

ORIGINAL RULES.

Rule 74. Every member receiving an advance on mortgage shall, in addition to the monthly subscription on shares held by him, pay interest on such advance at the rate of nine per cent. per annum, payable monthly in advance.

THE BRITISH GUIANA BUILDING SOCIETY, LIMITED.

New Rules in substitution for Rules 74, 81 and 83, contained in the Schedule to Ordinance No. 15 of the year 1891, adopted at a Special General Meeting of Members held in the Society's Office on the 25th May, 1905.

Rule 74 is hereby repealed and the following substituted therefor:—

Rule 74. Every member receiving an advance on mortgage shall, in addition to the monthly subscription payable on shares held by him, pay interest on such advance at the rate of eight per cent. per annum on $100 or any part thereof. Such interest shall be payable monthly in advance on the first day of each month, to be provided for in the Mortgage Deed.

Rule 81. The Board shall be at liberty to advance temporary loans to members, on the security of their shares, such loans not to exceed in any case three-fourths of the amount at credit of such members, and to bear interest at 9 per cent. per annum. Such interest shall be payable monthly in advance on the first day of each month, and the share certificate shall be delivered up to the Secretary and be held and retained by him until the amount of the advance has been repaid in such manner as the Board shall determine; and if, on the expiration of the term allowed for the repayment of the loan, the same shall not have been duly and fully repaid, or if the member's subscription or interest be six months in arrear, the Board shall be at liberty to declare the shares forfeited and cancelled, and to close the account of the member.

Rule 83. It shall be lawful for the Society, at any execution or public sale of any property mortgaged to the Society, to buy in the same and subsequently to re-sell and transport the same: Provided that the Society shall not continue to hold any such property acquired under the powers herein contained for any longer period than two years from the time at which the Society shall have acquired the same, but shall be bound to sell such property at the expiration of such time to the best advantage, unless the special sanction of members in General Meeting is obtained to hold the property for a longer period.

Rule 81 is hereby repealed and the following substituted therefor:—

Rule 81.—(i.) Any member who has not obtained an advance on Mortgage may with the consent of the Board obtain a Temporary Loan on the security of the shares held by him, and when the amount required is under $100 the amount of the advance shall not exceed an amount which would leave to the credit of such member a sum less than $5, and in all sums of $100 and over, such loan shall not exceed 95 per cent. of the amount at the credit of such member's shares. Both such loans to bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, provided that the minimum amount of such interest shall be 12 cents. All such interest shall be payable in advance.

(ii.) Temporary Loans may, however, be granted to Mortgagors for the purpose of paying Town Taxes, Premiums of Insurance or any necessary repairs in respect to the mortgaged property, such loans to bear interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum on $100 or any part thereof, payable in advance, and in any and every case of such Temporary Loans the member shall deliver up to the Secretary his certificate of shares to be held by the Society until the said loan with interest is repaid.

(iii.) If on the expiration of the term allowed for the repayment of the loan and interest, the same shall not have been duly repaid, or if the member's subscription or interest be in arrear, the Board shall be at liberty to declare the shares cancelled, and to close the account of the member.

Rule 83 is hereby repealed and the following substituted therefor:—

Rule 83.—(i.) It shall be lawful for the Society, at any execution or public sale of any property mortgaged to the Society, to buy in the same and subsequently to re-sell and transport the same: Provided that the Society shall not continue to hold any such property acquired under the powers herein contained for any longer period than two years from the time at which the Society shall have acquired the same, but shall be bound to sell such property at the expiration of such time to the best advantage, unless the special sanction of members in General Meeting is obtained to hold the property for a longer period.

(ii.) It shall be lawful for the Society instead of taking proceedings for the foreclosure of any Mortgage, to purchase the mortgaged property from the Mortgagor for the Mortgage Debt, and accept transport of the same from the owner thereof, and the holding of such property shall be subject to similar conditions as those regulating purchases of property by the Society at Execution or Public Sales.

Vol. XXII.] No. 6 133

The Official Gazette
OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, WEDNESDAY, JULY 19TH, 1905.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
34. 17th July, 1905.

THE following Bills, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, are hereby published for general information.

By Command,

CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

THE SUMMARY JURISDICTION (MARRIED WOMEN) BILL, 1905.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

This Bill is intended to provide for the maintenance of wives deserted by their husbands, and of wives who are compelled by the misconduct of their husbands to live apart from them. At present no power exists to compel a husband to support his wife, beyond a provision in the Summary Conviction Offences Ordinance, 1893, making him liable to fine and imprisonment as an idle and disorderly person if he refuses to support her.

This Bill is based on an English Act of Parliament (58 and 59 Vict. C. 39.) passed for the same purpose, and it empowers a Magistrate to make what in effect is an order of judicial separation in cases where a husband is convicted of an aggravated assault on his wife, or has deserted her, or been guilty of such cruelty or misconduct as to justify her in leaving him, and to order him to pay her a regular sum for her support. (Clauses 2 and 3.)

Provision is also made for discharging or varying the order when it is proper to do so (Clause 5), and power is also reserved to the Magistrate to refuse to make an order, in cases where he thinks the Supreme Court can more conveniently deal with the matter. (Clause 8.)

Digitized by Google

The procedure is to be that usual in the Magistrates' Courts (Clauses 6 and 7) with a right of appeal to the Supreme Court. (Clause 9.)

A Clause is also added empowering the Poor Law Commissioners to recover from a husband any relief given by them to his wife, as is done in the case of relief given to all other persons who by law are entitled to be maintained by some other person. (Clause 10.)

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE LAW RELATING TO THE SUMMARY JURISDICTION OF MAGISTRATES IN REFERENCE TO MARRIED WOMEN."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Summary Jurisdiction (Married Women) Ordinance, 1905.

Married woman may apply in certain cases for order under Ordinance.

No. 17 of 1893.

2. Any married women—

(a.) Whose husband shall have been convicted summarily of an aggravated assault upon her within the meaning of section 27 of the Summary Conviction Offences Ordinance, 1893 ; or may apply to the Magistrate of the Judicial District, in which any such conviction has taken place, or in which the cause of complaint shall have wholly or partially arisen, for an order or orders under this Ordinance : Provided that where a married woman is entitled to apply for an order or orders under this section on the ground of the conviction of her husband upon indictment, she may apply to th Court before whom her husband has been convicted, and that Court shall, for the purposes of this section, become a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, and shall have the power without a jury to hear an application, and make the order or orders applied for.

Powers of Court.

3. The Magistrate to whom the application under this Ordinance is made may make an order or orders containing all or any of the provisions following, viz. :—

(a.) A provision that the applicant be no longer bound to cohabit with her husband (which provision while in force shall have the effect in all respects of a decree of judicial separation on the ground of cruelty) ;

(b.) A provision that the legal custody of any children of the marriage between the applicant and her husband, while under the age of sixteen years, be committed to the applicant ;

(c.) A provision that the husband shall pay to the applicant personally, or for her use, to any Officer of the Court or third person on her behalf, such weekly sum not exceeding ten dollars as the Court shall, having regard to the means both of the husband and wife, consider reasonable :

(d.) A provision for payment by the applicant or the husband, or both of them, of the costs of the Court and such reasonable costs of either of the parties as the Court may think fit.

Limitation of powers of Court.

4. No orders shall be made under this Ordinance on the application of a married woman if it shall be proved that such married woman has committed an act of adultery : Provided that the husband has not condoned, or connived at, or by his wilful neglect or misconduct conduced to such act of adutlery.

Court may vary or discharge order.

5. A Magistrate acting within the judicial district, in which any order under this Ordinance has been made, may, on the application of the married woman or of her husband, and upon cause being shown upon fresh evidence to the satisfaction of the Court at any time, alter, vary, or discharge any such order, and may upon any such application from time to time increase or diminish the amount of any weekly payment ordered to be made, so that the same do not in any case exceed the weekly sum of ten dollars. If any married woman upon whose application an order shall have been made under this Ordinance shall voluntarily resume cohabitation with her husband, or shall commit an act of adultery, such order shall upon proof thereof be discharged.

6. All applications under this Ordinance shall be made in accordance with the Summary Jurisdiction Ordinances, and in the case of a conviction of a husband for aggravated assault upon his wife, her application may, by leave of the Court, be made by summons to be issued and made returnable immediately upon such conviction.

Enforcement of orders.

7. Any order made under this Ordinance may from time to time be enforced, if the payments required by it to be made, or any of them, is or are in arrear, by distress, in the manner prescribed in Court may refuse an order in certain cases.

Appeal.

9. Save as is hereinbefore provided, an appeal shall lie from any order or the refusal of any order by a Magistrate under this Ordinance to the Supreme Court. Such appeal shall be regulated in all respects by the provisions of the Magistrates' Decisions (Appeals) Ordinance, 1893.

No. 13 of 1893.

Recovery of amount of poor relief given to married woman.

10.—(1.) Where any married woman has received poor relief under the provisions of the Poor Relief Ordinance, 1903, the Poor Law Commissioner or a Commissary of Taxation shall be entitled to recover from her husband the amount of such relief.

No. 12 of 1903.

No. 14 of 1903.

(2.) Such amount may be recovered under the Maintenance Ordinance, 1903, and for that purpose a married woman shall be deemed to be a person entitled to be maintained by her husband within the meaning of the said Ordinance.

THE IMMIGRATION ORDINANCE, 1891, AMENDMENT BILL, 1905.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

THE object of Clause 3 of this Bill is to enable the Governor to cancel the indenture of immigrants whom it may be necessary to remove from any estate, and whom no other estate can find employment for. Where possible such immigrants will be transferred to some other estate, but it is necessary to provide for the case arising of no other estate being able at the time to take them.

The object of Clauses 5 to 15 is to provide for the administration of the estates, not exceeding in value two hundred and forty dollars, of East Indian immigrants who die before they have become entitled to a return passage to India, or who have not surrendered their right to a return passage. Formerly the estates of deceased East Indians not indentured were administered by the Administrator General, in common with the estates of all other persons in the Colony who died intestate. When, however, that official was abolished, it was felt that special provision should be made for the care of East Indians dying after their indenture had expired, but who were or would become entitled to a return passage to their own country, and who are not quite in the same position as the general inhabitants of the colony. East Indians, who surrender their right to a return passage, should pass into the general population of the Colony, and be under the general laws applicable to all the King's subjects, and do not need special laws for their protection

It is not proposed in this Bill to provide for the administration of estates above the value of two hundred and forty dollars, but to leave these to be dealt with under the general law of the colony, but only to provide for the case of small estates, where the property being of little value, it might easily be taken possession of by someone not entitled to it, and the heirs, perhaps in India, might be defrauded of it, because its value is too small to make it worth while to incur expense in recovering it. The persons interested in large estates can be trusted to protect their own interests.

It is proposed to entrust the duty of administering these small estates to the Official Receiver, and Clauses 5 to 13 of the Bill are substantially a re-enactment of sections 100 to 108 of the repealed Administrator General's Ordinance, under which such estates were formerly dealt with, and Clause 14, a re-enactment of part of section 95, which deals with the commission payable on the administration of estates. The rate to be charged under the Bill, eight per cent., is the same as was payable formerly to the Administrator General.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE IMMIGRATION ORDINANCE, 1891."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

Short title and construction.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, Amendment Ordinance, 1905, and this Ordinance and the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, hereinafter called the Principal Ordinance, shall be read and construed together as one Ordinance.

Interpretation. No. 6 of 1905.

2. In this Ordinance "The Official Receiver" means the Official Receiver appointed under The Official Receiver's Ordinance, 1905.

Amendment of Section 180 of No. 18 of 1891.

3. Section 180 of the Principal Ordinance is hereby repealed and the following shall be deemed to be inserted in the said Ordinance in lieu therefor :—

Removal of immigrants.

"180. If at any time it appears to the Governor, on sufficient ground shown to his satisfaction that all or any of the Immigrants indentured on any estate should be removed therefrom, he may, at his discretion, cancel their indentures and grant them certificates of exemption from labour, or cancel their indentures and re-indenture them, with or without the payment of commutation money, to some other employer, for the remainder of their respective terms of service, such other employer, if required, paying therefor in cash or by promissory notes as the Governor may direct.

Such transfer shall not cancel the obligation of the original employer to pay the promissory notes given in respect of such immigrants, but he shall be entitled to the commutation money as provided in section 176 of the Principal Ordinance and in section 3 of the Immigration Ordinance, 1891, Amendment Ordinance, 1895.

ARTICLE IV.

Extradition shall not take place if the person claimed on the part of His Majesty's Government, or of the Government of Cuba, has already been tried and discharged or punished, or is awaiting trial in the territory of the United Kingdom or in the Republic of Cuba respectively, for the crime for which his extradition is demanded.

If the person claimed on the part of His Majesty's Government, or of the Government of Cuba, should be awaiting trial or undergoing sentence for any other crime in the territory of the United Kingdom or in the Republic of Cuba respectively, his extradition shall be deferred until after he has been discharged, whether by acquittal or on expiration of sentence, or otherwise.

ARTICLE VII.

A person surrendered shall in no case be kept in prison or be brought to trial in the State to which the surrender has been made, for any other crime, or on account of any other matters, than those for which the extradition shall have taken place, until he has been restored, or has had an opportunity of returning to the State by which he has been surrendered.

This stipulation does not apply to crimes committed after the extradition.

ARTICLE VIII.

The requisition for extradition shall be made through the Diplomatic Agents of the High Contracting Parties respectively.

The requisition for the extradition of an accused person must be accompanied by a warrant of arrest issued by the competent authority of the State requiring the extradition, and by such evidence as, according to the laws of the place where the accused is found, would justify his arrest if the crime had been committed there.

If the requisition relates to a person already convicted, it must be accompanied by a copy of the Judgment passed on the convicted person by the competent Court of the State that makes the requisition for extradition.

ARTICLE IX.

If the requisition for extradition be in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the competent authorities of the State applied to shall proceed to the arrest of the fugitive.

ARTICLE X.

A criminal fugitive may be apprehended under a warrant issued by any competent authority in either country, on such information or complaint, and such evidence, or after such proceedings, as would, in the opinion of the authority issuing the warrant, justify the issue of a warrant if the crime had been committed or the person convicted in that part of the dominions of the two Contracting Parties in which the said authority exercises jurisdiction; provided, however, that in the United Kingdom the accused shall, in such case, be sent as speedily as possible before a Police Magistrate. In the Republic of Cuba the Government will decide by Administrative procedure on everything connected with extradition until a special procedure on the subject be established by law.

ARTICLE XI.

The extradition shall take place only if the evidence be found sufficient, according to the laws of the State applied to, either to justify the committal of the prisoner for trial, in case the crime had been committed in the territory of the same State, or if extradition is claimed in respect of an offence of which the fugitive has been already convicted, to prove that the prisoner is the person convicted, and that the crime of which he has been convicted is one in respect of which extradition could, at the time of such conviction, have been granted by the State applied to.

ARTICLE XII.

In the examination which they have to make in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the authorities of the State applied to shall admit as valid evidence the sworn depositions or the affirmations of witnesses taken in the other State, or copies thereof, and likewise the warrants and sentences issued therein, and certificates of, or judicial documents stating, the fact of a conviction, provided the same are authenticated as follows:—

1. A warrant must purport to be signed by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

2. Depositions or affirmations, or the copies thereof, must purport to be certified, under the hand of a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State, to be the original depositions or affirmations, or to be true copies thereof, as the case may require.

3 A certificate of, or judicial document stating, the fact of a conviction must purport to be certified by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.

4. In every case such warrant, deposition, affirmation, copy, certificate, or judicial document must be authenticated, either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of the Minister of Justice, or some other Minister of the other State; but any other mode of authentication for the time being permitted by the law of the country where the examination is taken may be substituted for the foregoing.

ARTICLE XIII.

If the individual claimed by one of the High Contracting Parties in pursuance of the present Treaty should be also claimed by one or several other Powers on account of other crimes or offences committed upon their respective territories, his extradition shall be granted to the State whose demand is earliest in date.

ARTICLE XIV.

If sufficient evidence for the extradition be not produced within two months from the date of the apprehension of the fugitive or within such further time as the State applied to, or the proper Tribunal thereof, shall direct, the fugitive shall be set at liberty.

ARTICLE XV.

All articles seized which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension shall, if the competent authority of the State applied to for the extradition has ordered the delivery of such articles, be given up when the extradition takes place; and the said delivery shall extend not merely to the stolen articles, but to everything that may serve as a proof of the crime.

ARTICLE XVI.

All expenses connected with extradition shall be borne by the demanding State.

ARTICLE XVII.

The stipulations of the present Treaty shall be applicable to the Colonies and foreign possessions of His Britannic Majesty, so far as the laws in such Colonies and foreign possessions respectively will allow.

The requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal, who has taken refuge in any of such Colonies or foreign possessions, shall be made to the Governor or Chief authority of such Colony or possession by the chief Consular offier of the Republic of Cuba in such Colony or possession.

Such requisition may be disposed of, subject always, as nearly as may be, and so far as the law of such Colony or foreign possession will allow, to the provisions of this Treaty, by the said Governor or chief authority, who, however, shall be at liberty either to grant the surrender or to refer the matter to his Government.

His Britannic Majesty shall, however, be at liberty to make special arrangement in the British Colonies and foreign possessions for the surrender of Cuban criminals who may take refuge within such Colonies and foreign possessions, on the basis, so far as the law of such Colony or foreign possessions will allow, of the provisions of the present Treaty.

Requisitions for the surrender of a fugitive criminal emanating from any Colony or foreign possession of His Britannic Majesty shall be governed by rules laid down in the preceding Articles of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE XVIII.

The present Treaty shall come into force ten days after its publication, in conformity with the forms prescribed by the laws of the High Contracting Parties. It may be terminated by either of the High Contracting Parties by a notice not exceeding one year, and not less than six months.

It shall be ratified, after receiving the approval of the Senate of the Republic of Cuba, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Havana as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and affixed thereto their respective seals.

Done in duplicate at Havana, the third day of October, nineteen hundred and four.

(L.S.) LIONEL CARDEN.

And whereas the ratifications of the said Treaty were exchanged at Havana on the tenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and five:

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, and in virtue of the authority committed to him by the said recited Acts, doth order, and it is hereby ordered, that from and after the twenty-second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, the said Acts shall apply in the case of Cuba and of the said Treaty with the President of the Republic of Cuba:—

Provided always that the operation of the said Acts shall be and remain suspended within the Dominion of Canada so long as an Act of the Parliament of Canada passed in one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and entitled "An Act respecting the Extradition of Fugitive Criminals," shall continue in force there, and no longer.

The Official Gazette
OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, WEDNESDAY, JULY 26TH, 1905.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
46. 25th July, 1905.

THE following Regulations, approved by the Governor-in-Council, are hereby published for the information of those concerned.

By Command,
CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

REGULATIONS AS REGARDS LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

A.—VACATION LEAVE SPENT IN THE COLONY.

1. The vacation leave of absence authorised under Colonial Regulations, when taken within the Colony for the purpose of relaxation from work, will apply only to Heads and Principal Officers of Departments, Police Inspectors of all classes, Judicial and Clerical Officers of all classes down to but not including the Junior classes, viz., the 5th and 6th classes and Clerical Assistants, and to no one else.

2. Clerical and Judicial officers of the 5th and 6th classses and Clerical Assistants may annually be granted vacation leave on full pay for one month.

3. Vacation leave cannot be taken as a matter of right; but will be granted subject to the exigencies of the Service and to the officer concerned being able to make such arrangements for his work as shall involve no cost to the Government, and are regarded as suitable by the Head of his Department, or in the case of Heads of Departments, by the Governor.

B.—SICK LEAVE.

4. Sick leave beyond a period of two days will be granted only upon the production of a Medical certificate fully setting forth the nature, cause and probable duration of the sickness.

Digitized by Google

5. Heads of Departments may, on account of sickness which they believe to be genuine, grant two days sick leave to a subordinate officer without the production of a Medical certificate. If the officer concerned cannot resume duty on the third day, the required Medical certificate must be obtained and the case reported to the Government Secretary.

6. If the Head of a Department has reason to think that the excuse of sickness for absence from duty by a subordinate officer is not genuine, he should at once arrange for a Government Medical Officer to visit the officer without delay and make a report.

7. Heads of Departments absent from duty on account of illness for a longer period than two days must send their Medical certificate to the Government Secretary.

8. If the officer absent on a Medical certificate can make adequate provision for the performance of his duties to the satisfaction of the Head of his Department, or the Governor as the case may be, he will be permitted to draw full pay for a period not exceeding ten days at one time or twenty-eight days in all in one year. Absence on account of sickness beyond the periods named, although duly authenticated by a proper Medical certificate, will be on half pay; but officers having Vacation leave to their credit may take such Vacation leave.

9. Officers who cannot make satisfactory arrangements for the performance of their duties will receive half pay only, and with the available half pay the Government will make such arrangements.

C.—OFFICERS NOT ON THE FIXED ESTABLISHMENT.

10. The foregoing regulations are also applicable to officers not on the Fixed Establishment, but holding permanent appointments, who have completed one year's service and are not engaged under special agreement or affected by special regulations.

D.—LEAVE SPENT OUT OF THE COLONY.

11. All officers on the Fixed Establishment including those named in rule 2 are entitled to take leave, both Vacation and Half Pay leave, out of the Colony as laid down in the Colonial Regulations; but the Vacation leave applied for will be subject to reduction in respect of such leave taken within the Colony during the year in which it is applied for.

E.—SPECIAL LEAVE.

12. Heads of Departments and Magistrates may however grant to officers of their Departments in their discretion and subject to the exigencies of the Service, leave of absence not exceeding two days at a time on urgent private affairs which must be disclosed. Heads of Departments and Magistrates requiring such leave must apply for it to the Government Secretary.

F.—OFFICERS AND OTHERS SUBJECT TO SPECIAL LEAVE REGULATIONS.

13. These regulations do not apply to Constables, Prison Officers, Subordinate Officials of the Post Office and Medical Institutions, Messengers, Boatmen and others whose leave is governed by special regulations.

G.—GENERAL REGULATIONS.

14. When possible leave of absence should be applied for and the arrangements made, at least fourteen days before the leave is to commence.

15. Vacation leave of absence on half salary may not be spent in the Colony without the special sanction of the Governor.

16. Heads of Departments and Magistrates must keep a register of all absences of themselves and their staff from work from whatever cause.

17. These Regulations supercede all previous Circulars and Departmental Instructions with regard to leave of absence.

Approved by the Governor-in-Council this 20th day of July, 1905.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Clerk of Council.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

IN INSOLVENCY.

THIS 26TH DAY OF JULY, 1905.

Re DAVID FOO
versus
Ex parte HO-A-HING.

The Official Receiver, in this matter, rejected a portion of the claim of Ho-a-Hing on the estate of David Foo to the extent of $5,006 84. As regards the sum of $4,928 88 for the reasons that: (1) on or about the 13th May, 1903, it was agreed by and between the claimant, the insolvent, and one Fung-Teen-Yong, that in consideration of the payment to the claimant of the sum of three hundred dollars in cash by the said Fung-Teen-Yong, and of his giving a promissory note for the sum of fourteen hundred dollars, payable in monthly instalments of seventy dollars, the claimant would accept the same in full satisfaction of the insolvent's indebtedness to him up to the said 13th day of May.

(2) That by the said agreement the insolvent was discharged from payment to the claimant of this amount, and the claimant accepted the said Fung-Teen-Yong as his debtor in the place of the said insolvent.

(3) The terms of the said agreement have been fully carried out by the said Fung-Teen-Yong.

(4) The claimant is estopped from claiming this amount to be due, for the reason that at the time when the said agreement was made, he wilfully concealed from the said Fung-Teen-Yong, the existence of the claim now sought to be established and thereby induced him to enter into the said agreement.

2. As regards the sum of $77 96 for the reason that these costs were not awarded by the Court.

The present motion is for an order reversing that part of the decision of the Official Receiver, rejecting the proof filed against the estate of David Foo, the insolvent, to the extent of $4,928 88 and for a further order directing the said Official Receiver to admit the said claim to the extent of the said sum of $4,928 88 to rank as dividend against the said estate.

The grounds of the motion are shortly: (1) that it was never agreed for the considerations set out in the reasons for rejection to accept the consideration or anything in full satisfaction of the insolvent's indebtedness to the mover up to the 13th day of May, 1903; (2) that the insolvent was never discharged from the payment of the sum claimed or any part thereof, nor was Fung-Teen-Yong ever accepted as his debtor in place of the said insolvent with respect to the said amount or any part thereof.

3. That the amount now claimed is due for goods sold and delivered and moneys paid at the request of the insolvent, but which goods and moneys were fraudulently omitted to be entered in the ledger of the mover by his late book-keeper without the knowledge of the mover but with the knowledge of the insolvent.

4. That there was no legal obligation imposed on the mover to inform Fung-Teen-Yong that the present claim existed nor was he induced in any way to make the payment mentioned.

5. That there never was any agreement including or dealing with the $4,928 82.

This is one of a series of cases which arose from the fraudulent omissions by the late book-keeper of Ho-a-Hing to enter in the ledger sundry goods delivered to certain customers of the firm. The omissions were discovered in December, 1902, they amounted to about $20,000. Amongst the customers who had received goods but who were not charged with them were Fung-Teen-Yong, Jacob Fung and David Foo, who are related to one another. The largest amount so omitted was in the case of Fung-Teen-Yong. When the fact of the omissions was brought to his notice he compromised for the sum of $10,000 by means of promissory notes, transfer of scrip and cash. Later on, on 3rd September, 1904, he entered into an agreement to transport land, mortgage stock and deliver 15 horses in consideration of Ho-a-Hing paying certain debts due by him to other firms and also as a settlement of the amount then presently indebted to Ho-a-Hing. A suit was brought against Fung-Teen-Yong for a further sum of $2,014 09, but was dismissed, the learned judge holding that everything owing at the date of the agreement was included in the settlement. A suit was also instituted against Jacob Fung for the price of goods omitted from the account and judgment was obtained, as the receipt in the pass-book for the amount appearing in it was held not to be an account stated but simply a receipt for the specific sum as entered, no mention being made of any omissions which omissions must have been known to the defendant.

An action was also instituted against David Foo, but before it was really entered on and without taking advantage of the time given to amend the pleadings he applied for a Receiving Order and was adjudged an insolvent. Both the cases of Fung-Teen-Yong and Jacob Fung were quoted before me, the one in support of this motion and the other in support of the rejection of the claim by the Official Receiver.

Although there is a similarity in some respects between this case and the ones quoted they are neither of them on all fours with it. Here the settlement was not with the debtor himself but with a third party who was suggested by the creditor himself as a person who should be asked to "take over the account." Benjamin Ho-a-Hing says "I advised him to get his friend to take over the account," he brought his brother-in-law, F. T. Yong sometime in May, 1903. F. T. Yong agreed to take over Foo's account. I took him to the ledger and showed him the balance, he then asked me if I would not make a reduction in the account. I agreed to take off something and accepted $1,700 in full of the account as it appeared. They both asked me to show the account. I asked Foo for his pass-book, he said he could not find it, so I showed them the ledger"; and in cross-examination, "I suggested F. T. Yong or J. W. Lee to Foo who might take over his account. I suggested them as men of substance. J. W. Lee refused."

In the account in the ledger, there is a deduction of $336 65 for goods not delivered and $198 94 are written off to profit and loss. Those closing entries make up the balance of $535 59 which had been struck after the compromise of $1,700. This balance of $535 59 is incorrect, it should be $515 59 showing that the ledger account is not quite accurate. There is also a further credit entry of $139 for goods before the settlement. As a matter of fact, according to the ledger, the sum due at the date of the settlement was $2,221 59. Benjamin Ho-a-Hing says he accepted $1,700 for the balance due as it stood in the ledger while Fung-Teen-Yong says he was told the indebtedness was about $1,900. But whether the ledger was examined or not, which is doubtful, it is certain that Benjamin Ho-a-Hing made no mention of the omissions of which he was well aware. Indeed he says he did not mention them as David Foo had said he would become insolvent if action was taken. By that admission he clearly shows that his idea was to get as favourable a sum from Fung-Teen-Yong as he could then, hoping later on by action to recover the amount of those omissions. On the other hand I cannot believe that F. T. Yong was altogether ignorant of the fact that the ledger account was incorrect for he asked Benjamin Ho-a-Hing if there would be any opposition to a transfer or mortgage by Foo and was told there would be none. In order to make this clear it was reduced into writing as follows:—

13th May, 1903.
Fung-Teen-Yong, Esq.,
Georgetown, Demerara.

Dear Sir,—As you have agreed to liquidate Mr. David Foo's account with me for the sum of seventeen hundred dollars payable as follows—in cash $300 and the balance of fourteen hundred dollars with a promissory note in monthly instalments of seventy dollars per month which I accept and in consideration I promise that I will not oppose any mortgage or transfer that the same Mr. David Foo may desire to let you have.

Yours very truly,
Ho-a-Hing,
per B. H. Ho-a-Hing.

A receipt of the same date was also given, it is: Received from Fung-Teen-Yong, Esq., the sum of three hundred dollars in cash and a promissory note for fourteen hundred dollars payable in monthly instalments of seventy dollars for full satisfaction for account as to date for Mr. David Foo, of Johanna Cecilia, Essequebo, as per letter of the same date.

Ho-a-Hing,
per B. H. Ho-a-Hing.

The transfer was never made, and the property has in consequence became part of the Estate.

From these documents there can be no doubt that the account of David Foo to the then date, was dealt with and as a third party was taking over the account, it was incumbent on Benjamin Ho-a-Hing to tell that third party what he was taking over. If no settlement for a reduced definite amount had been arrived at, what would have been the position of the parties? Ho-a-Hing might have said to Yong "you have taken over the account of David Foo, he owes me $5,000, you must pay it." To this, Yong would have been justified in replying "I did take over the account, but you told me it was only $1,900 and on the strength of that I acted. Had I known it was so much as you now say, I would not have taken it over." The same argument would apply now. It is urged that this is not a claim against Fung-Teen-Yong, that is settled, but one against David Foo, quite a different thing. Can this argument prevail? When Fung-Teen-Yong took over the account of David Foo, he became the debtor and the indebtedness of David Foo no longer existed for there can be no doubt that the expression "liquidate Mr. David Foo's account with me" was intended to convey and was understood to mean his whole indebtedness. Fung-Teen-Yong was led to believe that he was accepted in the place of David Foo as the debtor and in that belief paid the $300 in cash and gave the promissary note for $1,400. Ho-a-Hing has received the whole amount stipulated for andhe cannot now repudiate the transaction and claim from the estate of David Foo in insolvency what he could not claim from David Foo as a debtor. He cannot blow hot and cold (Cave v. Mills 10 W.R. 471). The Official Receiver represents the insolvent and has all his rights.

I dismiss the motion with costs.

JOHN E. HEWICK, J.

Re Estate DAVID FOO, Insolvent

Ex parte FUNG-TEEN-YONG.

This is a motion for an order for the reversal of the decision of the Official Receiver rejecting the claim of Fung-Teen-Yong to the extent of $1,000 which represent certain payments of instalments on a promissory note given by Fung-teen-Yong to Ho-a-Hing in part settlement of the account of David Foo.

It is said that these instalments were not paid by Fung-Teen-Yong but by the insolvent himself, presumably, from the evidence offered, out of the profits or sales of the shop of David Foo which was carried on by him at Johanna Cecilia, Essequebo.

The goods for this shop were debited to Fung-Teen-Yong who was responsible. According to Benjamin Ho-a-Hing, Fung-Teen-Yong asked him to see that David Foo kept up the instalments on the promissory note adding also that if Foo did not pay them he Yong would; this is denied by Yong who says he asked Benjamin Ho-a-Hing not to give too much credit and to see that the sales of the shop were paid in regularly. The instalments of $70 a month were paid fairly regularly up to June, 1904. In August a payment was made of $100 and then they ceased, the balance of the promissory note being arranged for in an agreement made on the 3rd September between Ho-a-Hing and Fung-Teen-Yong.

The original claim sent in on the estate of David Foo by Fung-Teen-Yong was based on a promissory note for $1,400 but this note bore the date 13th May, 1902, whereas the transaction for which it was given only took place on 13th May, 1903. That claim was withdrawn and the present one put in for moneys paid at the request of David Foo. The sum of $690 has been allowed, namely, $300 paid in cash at the time when the account of David Foo was taken over by Fung-teen-Yong and $390 the balance of the promissory note included in the agreement of the 3rd September, 1904, both of which were clearly and obviously paid by Fung-Teen-Yong. There is not sufficient proof to my mind to conclusively show that the instalments on the promissory note as now claimed were paid by the insolvent from his own moneys and this being so the claim should be allowed. I therefore reverse the decision of the Official Receiver with costs.

Board of Agriculture Notice.

Georgetown, Demerara,
28th July, 1905.

THE following Report by the Government Botanist on the various diseases of the Cacao plant on Estates in British Guiana, is published for general information.

OSCAR WEBER,
Secretary,
Board of Agriculture.

GOVERNMENT BOTANIST'S OFFICE,
GEORGETOWN, BRITISH GUIANA,
12th June, 1905.

Sir,—I have the honour to report that, acting under your instructions, accompanied by the Assistant Agricultural Instructors, Messrs. Beckett and Mansfield, I visited the more important cacao estates in the Colony during the months of March and April, with the object of investigating and reporting on the various diseases of the Cacao plant.

2. The investigation was of interest because, not only did I make an acquaintance with most of the diseases already known as attacking the cacao plant in British Guiana, but two fresh and interesting diseases were discovered, one of them of very grave nature the presence of which in the Colony was previously unsuspected. I refer to the "Witch Broom" disease of Surinam.

3. The follwing is a list of of the more important fungus diseases and insect attacks of the cacao tree that were met with :—

(a.) Due to Fungus diseases :—

I. Cacao pod disease.
II. "Brown Rot" disease of the cacao pod.
III. "Witch Broom" disease.

(b.) Insect Attacks :—

I. Thrips.
II. Cacao Beetle.
III. "Leaf-miner" of Cacao pod.

4. The Cacao pod disease (Phytophthora omnivora, De Bary) was found to be fairly plentiful on the estates along the Demerara River, less so along Canal No. 1, and in general appears to be the most frequent of all the fungus diseases of cacao in the Colony. Usually at either end of the pod, but often in the middle part, brown circular patches are seen on the husk which gradually increase in size until the whole or the greater part of the pod becomes of a uniform brown colour. In most cases on cutting the pod open the whole thickness of the husk and more or less of the beans and the pulp enclosing them is of a brownish colour and possesses a sour smell. In some cases, although the husk is badly attacked the beans appear to be little or not at all affected.

5. In the middle of the brown patches when the fungus is sufficiently developed, a delicate white incrustation is often visible which, when examined under the microscope, is seen to consist of fungal hyphae bearing white egg-shaped spores. In the substance of the husk in some cases are found round larger and darker spores with thick walls which have the power of retaining their vitality for some time and hence are known as "resting spores."

6. The number of diseased pods on the different estates appeared to vary inversely as the attention paid to the drainage and the care bestowed on the cultivation. Where the drains were kept clean and dug to a sufficient depth, the trees not too heavily shaded and the beds weeded and kept clean, there were few to be seen. In the estates along the Demerara River, the probable percentage of diseased pods could almost be gauged from an examination of the conditions under which the trees were growing.

7. One old planter (Mr. Clark, of Clarksdale) kindly gave me some information with regard to the disease on his own estate. He said that at the end of last year quite 35 o/o of his pods were diseased and that the disease occurs at all stages of growth of the pods, that although the beans insidethe diseased pods may look good, they are watery and possess little substance.

I may add that he was a cocoa planter in Grenada before he came to the colony and considers that the practice here is to shade too heavily and from his own experience, he finds that the more sparingly shaded trees produce the most cacao. He is at present planting a small area by way of experiment without permanent shade trees.

8. I have already pointed out that the occurrence and prevalence of this disease is apparently largely dependent on neglect and its comparative scarcity on Coverden estate which is kept in excellent order, helps to confirm my opinion. I think it must be granted that plants or animals living under unhealthy conditions, are more liable to be attacked by disease than when under favourable conditions, and moreover they are more likely to succumb to the attack. When trees are maintained in a healthy and vigorous condition by careful attention to draining, weeding, pruning, shading, etc., they are, undoubtedly, in a better condition to withstand the attacks of fungus diseases. These may be regarded as preventive measures.

9. As remedies I would suggest the gathering and burning or burying of all pods showing signs of the disease. The spores which enable the disease to spread from one pod to another not in contact with it and from one tree to another, do not appear to be formed until the brown patches have reached a certain size. Further it has been observed that when a diseased pod is in contact with a healthy one, the fungus may spread from the former to the latter without the intervention of spores by means of the hyphae.

10. The universal practice on the cacao estates of the colony seems to be to pile the pods, both healthy and diseased, into heaps after gathering for a short time until they are broken. This carriage of infected pods for some distance and the placing of them under other trees, would give the disease abundant opportunities of dissemination by means of the spores.

11. Again after the pods are broken and the beans removed, the husks are invariably left in heaps to rot amongst the cacao trees. It has not been conclusively proved that Phytophthora omnivora is purely parasitic and cannot live for a time on non-living organic matter, but in any case, the cells of the husk can remain alive for some time and allow the fungus to grow and form spores, which may be disseminated in various ways. Hence it is advisable that all the old husks should be burnt or buried. The husks form a valuable manure but too many should not be buried in one hole because when they decay they form certain acids which render the soil sour. To avoid this a little lime may be sprinkled over them.

12. As a last resort, spraying the young pods with Bordeaux Mixture may be recommended, but I think that if the suggestions previously put forward are systematically carried out, spraying will not be required.

13. "Brown Rot" disease of the Cacao pod (Diplodia cacaoicola, P. Henn.) From the description of this fungus, it seems very much to resemble the last in its manner of attack. It begins in the same way as a brown patch on the pod which gradually extends until the whole pod is destroyed. It appears to be very rapid in its action and from 6 to 10 days after the appearance of the diseased spot is sufficient for the destruction of the pod. The spores appear as black sooty patches on the diseased areas and when examined under the microscope, are seen to be brown in colour, elliptical in form and divided into two by a transverse wall.

14. The disease appeared for the first time some years back in the Windward Islands and has quite recently been observed in Trinidad.

15. The disease also attacks the cacao trees themselves, especially when young, causing the branches to die and decay at the ends and the decay gradually spreads to the stem until eventually the tree is killed. One very important point in the biology of this fungus is that, besides being parasitic it is also saprophytic, i.e., it is able to live and grow on dead organic matter, and hence it is found on the old husks of the cacao pods and on the dead prunings of the trees.

16. These two pod diseases resemble each other so closely in the form of their attacks that unless the spores can be found it appears to be impossible to say to which of them a diseased pod is due. I was unable to find the spores of Diplodia cacaoicola on any of the diseased pods taken from the trees, * while the spores of Phytophthora omnivora were plentiful, but the former were frequent on the piles of dead husks.

17. As the form of attack is so similar, the measures recommended for dealing with Phytophthora omnivora would appear to be likewise applicable in this case. Extra stress must be laid on the destruction by burning or burying of the dead husks as the fungus multiplies on these and it has been observed that the disease is more prevalent near the "breaking grounds." For the same reason all dead branches and prunings and rotten wood should be destroyed.

18. "Witch Broom" Disease. (Exoascus Theobromae Ritz Bos.) I am glad to report that I have found this disease on only one estate, along the Demerara River.† It is characterised by gouty enlargements of the twigs and by their tendency to grow together in clusters somewhat resembling brooms, whence the name. The fruits are also attacked by the fungus and when they are young often show a swelling on one side, or sometimes the disease appears as an irregular discoloured spot which later becomes black. The infected pods are distinguished from those attacked by other diseases through their becoming excessively hard, which sympton is described by the Dutch word for "petrifaction".

* I have lately found the spores of Diplodia cacaoicola on a half diseased pod picked from a tree.

† Mr. J. E. Beckett has recently found the disease abundant on certain abandoned cacao estates along the Berbice River.

19. The disease has done a considerable amount of damage in Surinam where it was first noted in 1898, seriously impairing the bearing powers of the trees attacked. Mr. Hart mentions that in 1900 some examples of the disease were collected in the Diego Martin District in Trinidad, as evidenced by a sheet in the Herbarium, but only a single tree was found to be affected.

20. I have been recently been informed by a gentleman from Surinam that the only estate which is not attacked by the disease in that colony is one called Maragaritenburg and that it is the only estate that dispenses entirely with shade trees.

21. To prevent the disease from spreading in British Guiana it is of the utmost importance that a careful watch should be kept for its first appearance on any estate, and prompt measures should be taken to eradicate it by cutting off all the branches attacked and burning them on the spot, and afterwards spraying the tree with Bordeaux Mixture. It may be even advisable in certain cases to sacrifice the tree.

22. Probably in all cases the disease originates by chance spores being conveyed in some way by birds, insects, wind, etc., to a single tree on an estate. If the disease is not noticed, and it is allowed to spread for a time, it may involve the whole or the greater part of the plantation.

23. A very drastic pruning and spraying of the infected parts by Bordeaux Mixture though only tried quite recently in Surinam, would appear likely to be productive of beneficial results.

24. "Thread Disease." Specimens of this disease were found on two estates along the Demerara River, probably not more than half a dozen trees on each estate being attacked by it. The form of the disease is very characteristic, branching dark-coloured threads which run irregularly along the branches and twigs ending on the veins on the under side of the leaves. The youngest and smallest threads on the veins of the leaves are usually white. In the absence of spores it has been impossible as yet to identify the fungus.

25. Trees attacked by it are rendered very conspicuous by the quantity of dead leaves at the ends of the branches,—sometimes all the leaves on a branch aredead and brown,—and the threads bind these together with the smaller twigs into clumps. Where the ends of the branches attacked come into contact with branches of neighbouring trees the fungus spreads to these and they become likewise affected.

26. The disease was first recorded from St. Lucia in August of last year and since then has been found on an estate in Trinidad. In St. Lucia it appears also on many forest trees and in Trinidad the shade trees are sometimes attacked.

27. It appears to spread slowly because the owner of one of the estates where it occurs informed me that he had noticed the quantity of withered leaves on certain trees for the last ten years without being able to account for them. Still the disease has undoubtedly serious effects on the trees attacked and unless prompt measures are taken to stamp it out, it might, when it has become more plentiful, prove difficult to deal with.

28. A very similar disease attacks tea bushes in India. On its first appearance it was usually neglected and laughed at and now it has become one of the commonest and perhaps most destructive diseases of the tea plant.

29. Pruning away the parts of the trees attacked as far as possible would seem to be the best plan to pursue to get rid of it as well as spraying with Bordeaux Mixture or one of the more powerful fungicides, e. g., lime-sulphur wash.

30. There is a disease which is common on the cacao estates along Canal No 1. but of which only occasional examples were seen along the Demerara River. It presents the appearance of irregular rounded, sometimes nodular concrescences on the bark of the tree which occur both on the trunk and the branches. These concrescences are formed from much hypertrophied inflorescences and consist of myriads of greenish flowers few of which open; and they are sometimes as much as 6 inches across. Careful examination has so far failed to reveal any fungus or insect to which these growths may be due. Specimens have been sent to the Imperial Department of Agriculture but no previous reference to them have been found.

31. These excrescences appear to do a certain amount of injury because the inflorescences out of which they are formed seldom or never bear pods, and on some trees they are fairly plentiful.

32. They can be cut off easily with a knife or a blow from a cutlass and this seems to be the simplest and most effective remedy, but I have been unable to obtain evidence as to whether they grow again from the same spot. I would recommend further that when cut off they should be burnt or buried and the scars on the trees should be tarred.

33. "Thrips" (Physopus rubrocincta). Of the insects attacking cacao trees "thrips" are the most frequent. These are minute dark-coloured insects less than one-twelth of an inch in length, belonging to the Thysanoptera which feed by sucking the juices of plants. Their small size is counterbalanced by their being usually exceedingly numerous on the plants attacked. The trees on which they occur are generally distinguished by their sickly appearance and the yellowish-green colour of their leaves.

Digitized by Google

34. I must dissent from the frequently expressed idea that the unhealthiness of plants predisposes them to insect attacks in the same way as it does to the attacks of parasitic fungi. On the contrary, I should imagine that a healthy well-nourished plant would prove more attractive than a sickly one to any discriminating insect whose tastes lay in that direction. I think that more often the correct statement of the case is that the unhealthy appearance of the plant is the result of the injuries done to it by the attacking insects, and not that the plant was attacked in the first instance because it was unhealthy. It is very probable, however, that weak and unhealthy plants would feel the attacks most and would succumb to them the soonest.

35. The pods of a cacao tree attacked by "thrips" are distinguished by their rusty brown colour and they are said to take longer to mature. But the chief disadvantage arises from the fact that it is difficult to tell from the external appearance of these pods whether they are ripe or not, thus many pods are picked before they are ripe or are left too long on the tree.

36. On every estate visited, some trees were found infected by "thrips" but the disease was nowhere plentiful. It is a question for the planter to decide in this and the diseases previously described, whether the damage done is sufficient to warrant the necessary expenditure involved in spraying the trees. Still there is always the possibility to be recognised that unless steps are taken to combat insect or fungus attacks on their first appearance, it may be exceedingly difficult and costly to do so later when the pests have become firmly established.

37. The measures advocated for dealing with thrips are :—

(a.) The pods on the trees infested to be sprayed or brushed with either kerosine emulsion or rosin wash.

(b.) The husks of any pods which, after gathering, are found to be infested, should after removal of the beans be at once burned, scorched or buried to destroy the insects.

(c). The under sides of young plants and those of old plants badly attacked should be brushed or sprayed with kerosine emulsion or rosin wash.

38. The Cacao Beetle (Steirastoma sp.) was only mentioned on one estate as doing damage : possibly it may have been overlooked on the others. I am indebted to the kindness of the owner for obtaining a specimen for the Museum. The beetle belongs to the family of Longicornes, distinguished from other beetles by the length of their antennae which in this case measure over an inch while the body of the insect is only about three-quarters of an inch long. The general colour is grey with black lines and dots and the upper surface of the body is rendered uneven by irregular raised lines.

39. The damage to the trees is done by the larvae which when full grown are white footless grubs about an inch in length with a brownish black head and prominent jaws. They eat out tunnels in the wood of the tree both in the trunk and the branches, weakening the latter so that they break off easily. I was informed that they sometimes cause the death of the tree by tunnelling completely round it between the wood and the bark and thus "girdling" or "ringing" it.

40. They may be destroyed by searching for the holes and either probing the tunnels with a stout wire or by cutting out the larvae with a knife. In the latter case the wounds should be well tarred afterwards.

41. From its method of feeding the "Leaf miner" of the cacao pod appears to be the larva of one of the small moths belonging to the Tineina. Specimens of the work of these insects are common enough in the white sinuous tracks produced by them on the leaves of many species of plants. On every cacao estate and on some the greater number of the pods showed the markings of the "leaf-miner".

42. The egg is usually laid near the base of the pod and the larva eats its way through the tissue just beneath the epidermis, leaving a sinuous, irregular brown line visible on the surface which gradually becomes broader as the insect increases in size and at the same time the middle of the track is marked by a thin black line of excrementa. Somewhere near the lower end of the pod as it hangs on the tree, the larva when it has reached its full size changes into the pupal state, and after a short time the moth emerges leaving the pupa case to mark the termination of the tunnel. No injury appears to be done, or likely to be done to the pods, and perhaps for this reason it has not been previously recorded.

43. In conclusion, I should like to take this opportunity of expressing the grateful thanks of my companions and myself for the hospitality and kindness shown to us by the proprietors and managers of the cacao estates that we visited, and for the very valuable assistance and information which they willingly gave us.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

A. W. BARTLETT,

Government Botanist.

Government Notices.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
58. 1st August, 1905.

THE following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

This Bill will take the place of the one withdrawn in the Court of Policy on the 9th June, 1905.

By Command,
CHARLES T. COX,
Government Secretary.

THE CATTLE STEALING PREVENTION ORDINANCE, 1877, AMENDMENT BILL, 1905.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The object of this Bill is to provide additional safeguards to those already existing against cattle stealing, which is rife in some parts of the Colony.

This is sought to be obtained partly by making it compulsory to brand all bulls, cows, oxen, steers, heifers and asses, leaving it optional, as at present, to brand other animals. This is provided for by Clause 3 of the Bill.

Clause 4 deals with the mode of branding and is designed to prevent fraudulent manipulation of brands.

Clause 5 requires every person who agists cattle, other than horses or mules, to keep a book recording the particulars of the cattle he agists.

Clause 6 compels persons in charge of cattle to report to the Police Stations and toll houses which they pass, and Clause 7 provides for special notices being sent to cattle owners, who are willing to pay a fee for that privilege, of any cattle bearing their brand which pass any Police Station.

Clause 8 makes it an offence to trespass with dogs on lands where cattle are pastured.

Clause 9 requires the permission of the Police before cattle are allowed to cross rivers, creeks, &c.

Clauses 10 to 13 deal with the making and keeping of the register of brands.

WHEREAS by the Extradition Acts, 1870 to 1895, it was amongst other things enacted that, where an arrangement has been made with any foreign State with respect to the surrender to such State of any fugitive criminals, His Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that the said Acts shall apply in the case of such foreign State; and that His Majesty may, by the same or any subsequent Order, limit the operation of the Order, and restrict the same to fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in that part of His Majesty's dominions specified in the Order, and render the operation thereof subject to such conditions, exceptions, and qualifications as may be deemed expedient;

And whereas a Treaty was concluded on the twenty-sixth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, between Her late Majesty Queen Victoria and the Swiss Federal Council for the mutual extradition of fugitive criminals, in the case of which Treaty the Extradition Acts of 1870 and 1873 were applied by Order in Council of the eighteenth May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one;

In witness whereof the undersigned have signed the present Convention, and have affixed their seals thereto.

Done at London in duplicate, the 29th day of June, 1904.

RESOLUTIONS AND RULES, adopted by the General Medical Council on December 2, 1902, May 19 and November 30, 1903, May 31, 1904, and May 25 and 26, 1905, for

DIPLOMAS IN PUBLIC HEALTH.

I.—The Council, having regard to the terms of Section 18 of the Local Government Act (1888), and of Section 54 of the Local Government (Scotland) Act (1889); and observing that under those sections special privilege is to be accorded to the holders of the Diplomas granted under Section 21 of the Medical Act (1886), and therein described as Diplomas in Sanitary Science, Public Health, or State-Medicine, thinks it essential to declare, with regard to its own future action under Section 21 of the Medical Act (1886), that it will not consider Diplomas to "deserve recognition in the Medical Register" unless they have been granted under such conditions of education and examination as to ensure (in the judgment of the Council) the possession of a distinctively high proficiency, scientific and practical, in all the branches of study which concern the Public Health; and the Council, in forming its judgment on such conditions of education and examination, will expect the following Rules to have been observed :—

Rule 1. A period of not less than twelve months shall have elapsed between the attainment of a registrable Qualification in Medicine, Surgery, and Midwifery, and the admission of the Candidate to any Examination or any part thereof for a Diploma in Sanitary Science, Public Health, or State-Medicine.

Rule 2. Every Candidate shall have produced evidence that, after obtaining a registrable Qualification, he has during six months received practical instruction in a Laboratory or Laboratories, British or Foreign, approved by the Licensing Body granting the Diploma, in which Chemistry, Bacteriology, and the Pathology of the Diseases of Animals transmissible to Man are taught.

Rule 3. Every Candidate shall have produced evidence that, after obtaining a registrable Qualification, he has during six months (of which at least three months shall be distinct and separate from the period of laboratory instruction required under Rule 2), been diligently engaged in acquiring a practical knowledge of the duties, routine and special, of Public Health Administration, under the supervision of (a) In England and Wales, the Medical Officer of Health of a County or of a single Sanitary District having a population of not less than 50,000, or a Medical Officer of Health devoting his whole time to Public Health work; or

(b) In Scotland, a Medical Officer of Health of a County or Counties, or of one or more Sanitary Districts having a population of not less than 30,000; or

(c) In Ireland, a Medical Superintendent Officer of Health of a District or Districts having a population of not less than 30,000; or

(d) In the British Dominions outside the United Kingdom, a Medical Officer of Health of a Sanitary District having a population of not less than 30,000, who himself holds a registrable Diploma in Public Health; or

(e) A Medical Officer of Health who is also a Teacher in the Department of Public Health of a recognised Medical School; or

(f) A Sanitary Staff Officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps having charge of an Army Corps, District, or Command, recognised for this purpose by the General Medical Council.

Note (1). The certificate of an Assistant Medical Officer of Health of a County or of a single Sanitary District having a population of not less than 50,000 may be accepted as evidence under Rule 3, provided the Medical Officer of Health of the County or District in question permits the Assistant Officer to give the necessary instruction and to issue certificates.

Note (2). Provided that the period of six months may be reduced to a period of three months (which shall be distinct and separate from the period of laboratory instruction required under Rule 2), in the case of any Candidate who produces evidence that, after obtaining a registrable Qualification, he has during three months attended a course or courses of instruction in sanitary law, sanitary engineering, vital statistics, and other subjects bearing on Public Health Administration, given by a Teacher or Teachers in the Department of Public Health of a recognised Medical School.

Note (3). A Candidate who shall have produced evidence that he has himself held for a period of not less than three years an appointment as Medical Officer of Health of a Sanitary District within the British Dominions, and having a population of not less than 15,000, may be exempted from the requirement of Rule 3.

Rule 4. Every Candidate shall have produced evidence that, after obtaining a registrable Qualification, he has attended during three months the practice of a Hospital for Infectious Diseases at which opportunities are afforded for the study of Methods of Administration.

Note (1) Methods of Administration shall include the methods of dealing with patients at their admission and discharge, as well as in the wards, and the Medical Superintendence of the Hospital generally.

Note (2) In the case of a Medical Officer of the Royal Army Medical Corps a certificate from a Principal Medical Officer under whom he has served, stating that he has during a period of at least three months been diligently engaged in acquiring a practical knowledge of Hospital Administration in relation to Infectious Diseases, may be accepted as evidence under Rule 4.

Rule 5. The Examination shall have been conducted by Examiners specially qualified; it shall have extended over not less than four days, one of which shall have been devoted to practical work in a Laboratory, and one to practical examination in, and reporting on, subjects which fall within the special outdoor duties of a Medical Officer of Health.

The Rules 2, 3, 4, as to study, shall not apply to Medical Practitioners registered, or entitled to be registered on or before January 1, 1890.

II.—The Council shall, from time to time, appoint an Inspector or Inspectors of Examinations in Public Health, with special instructions to report to the Council whether the Examination of each Licensing Body does or does not afford evidence, on the part of Candidates passing such Examination, of a distinctively high proficiency, scientific and practical, in each and all of the branches of study which concern the Public Health.

DIRECTIONS: DIET SCALE.

1. The Medical Officer shall use his discretion in prescribing the diets and extras, and his directions are to be strictly adhered to.

2. Care is to be taken that no change of diet is made until the previous one is struck off the Medical History Card.

3. During the absence of the Medical Officer, the Principal Sicknurse shall have power to order such diets and extras as he may think necessary; the Medical Officer's attention to be drawn to this at his next visit. Stimulants are not to be ordered by the Principal Sicknurse unless they are absolutely necessary; if it is done then a full report stating the reason for so doing is to be made on the Medical History Card and shown to the Medical Officer at his next visit.

4. When possible all diets and extras for the following day shall be ordered before 4 p.m. in order to give the Dispenser time to prepare the Summary.

5. Condensed milk may be used with the consent of the Medical Officer, and of such a strength as he may direct.

6. Should occasion arise where a patient's diet requires to be changed at once, an exchange of diet with another patient is to be resorted to for that day, and the requisite diet ordered for the following day.

7. Extra nourishment for the use of serious cases during the night must be specially ordered on the Medical History Card of each patient requiring it with directions as to the way it is to be given.

8. Patients placed on "Milk" and "Spoon" Diets for medical reasons should be carefully and daily watched so that the addition of beef or chicken tea and bread (or biscuits) either separately or together may be made the moment their condition will admit. These diets are "sick diets", and are based on a minimum scale, and if care and attention be not daily and regularly bestowed with a view of making the above additions to them the moment the necessity arises, dissatisfaction will invariably result. So also when the further improved condition of a patient will allow of a change to any of the fuller diets it should be done without delay. The Nurse shall call the Medical Officer's attention to cases requiring extras or change of diet.

9. The following stimulants and extras may be ordered in such quantities as may be requisite, but to be decreased the moment the medical necessity for their use ceases to exist, namely, Whisky, Brandy, Rum, Meat Extracts, Eggs and Ice.

10. The Medical Officer shall have power to order such other extras and stimulants as he may consider necessary for any patient, but must give his reasons in each case to the Surgeon General, if required.

11. The existing Dietary Table is hereby repealed.

Surgeon General.
